“Be ye ever so high, the law is above you.”

Thomas Fuller
(regularly quoted by Lord Justice Denning)
“Corruption is today’s biggest threat to democracy, and it undermines citizens’ trust in the rule of law. [...] Unfortunately, too many parliaments in Europe have immunities that make it attractive for powerful people, particularly those in business, to seek a seat in parliament and to hide there. [...] I appeal to you all, as an autonomous Assembly, to stand up and combat this evil in our democracies, because otherwise we run the risk of losing further confidence.”

“It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena [...] who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat”.

"Corruption is the antithesis vis-à-vis human rights, the venom vis-à-vis the rule of law, the poison for prosperity and development, the reverse of equity and equality. Investing in anti-corruption education and empowerment is therefore the smart way towards sustainable development, safeguarding human rights, and strengthening the rule of law."
