IGDS:NBU HISTORY OF RESEARCH ON TRANSFORMATIONAL LEADERSHIP

CARIBBEAN INSTITUTE IN GENDER & DEVELOPMENT (CIGAD)

- Established in 1992, the Caribbean Institute in Gender and Development (CIGAD) is the region's premier gender and development training certificate programme
- This intensive course provides comprehensive training in the ways social relations of gender animates Caribbean development
- Major outreach project of the the IGDS:NBU
- CIGAD has exposed over 400 alumni to key theoretical and methodological approaches to gender relations, as well as innovative training in the application of these approaches for social transformation
- Participants have applied these lessons to their work and activism at the state and community levels as farmers, police officers, university professors, students, social workers, teachers, political activists, attorneys-at-law and magistrates, and as staff or directors of international NGOs, Women and Gender Bureaux, religious and trade union organisations and media houses
- The next edition of CIGAD will take place in July 2019.

THE LIVITY PROJECT

SUPPORTING EASTERN CARIBBEAN CSOs FOR SOCIAL CHANGE
